

Senecio aureus

Golden Ragwort

This is a ragwort, NOT a ragweed! Also called heart-leaf groundsel. A pretty plant, covered with showy, yellow, daisy-shaped flowers in the spring. For the rest of the summer, the low (6"), bright green foliage is trouble-free and attractive. Does well in both sun and part-shade, but doesn't like dry soils.

Suggested companions: red-twig dogwood (Cornus stolonifera), southern blue flag iris (Iris virginica), sedges preferring damp locations (Carex sp.), lady fern (Athyrium filix-femina)
